
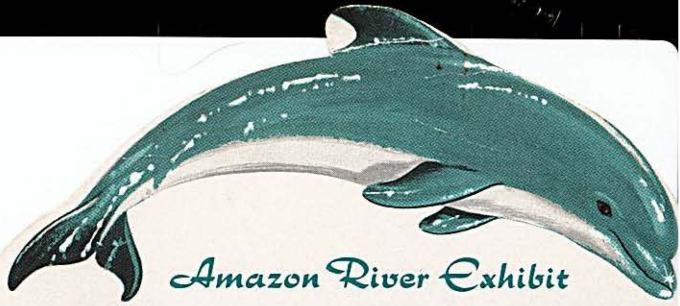
WORLD'S ORIGINAL MARINE ATTRACTION

Wonders of the Sea

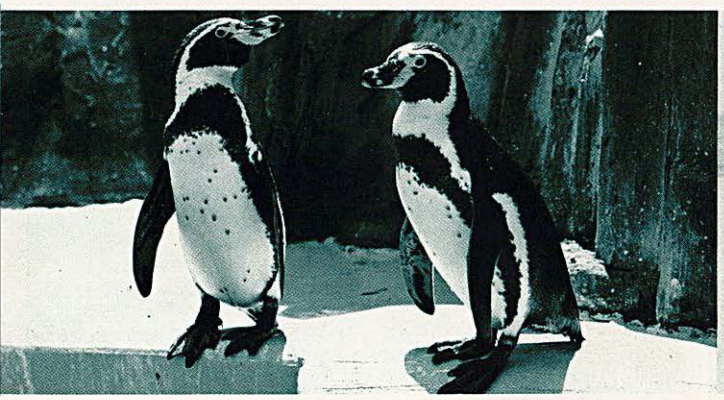


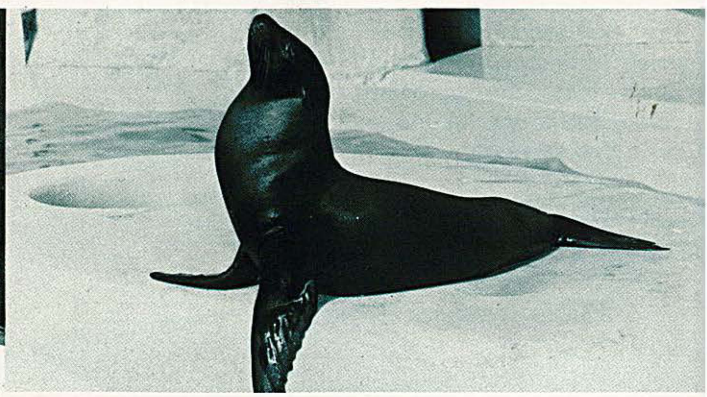
Amazon River Exhibit

Some of the most unusual creatures in the sea are exhibited in the display, well-deserving the name, "Wonders of the Sea." Here may be seen octopus, dragonfish, electric eel, sea horse, piranha and specimens ranging from brilliant beauties to bizarre.

Primitive, Amazon fresh water porpoises swim in a setting of jungle growth within this unique exhibit. Marineland made an expedition to Iquitos, Peru to capture these animals. It is anticipated that much can be learned about them through research and observation at Marineland.

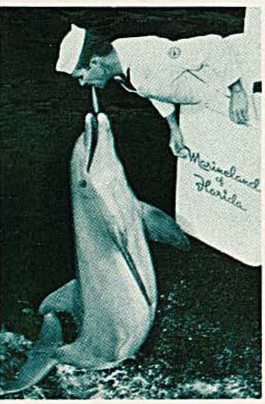
Whitney Park

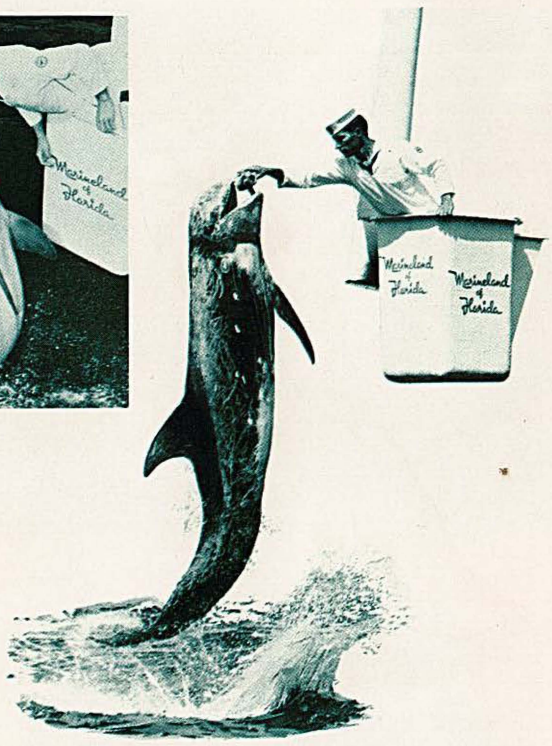


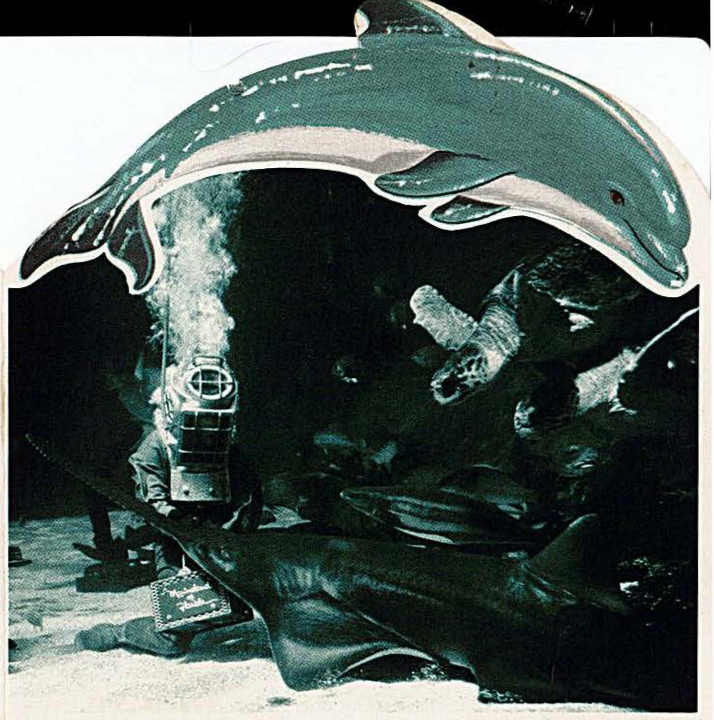


Plant life indigenous to the oasis atmosphere of Marineland graces the handsome landscape of Whitney Park. Humboldt penguins, harbor seals and playful California sea lions are residents of this sanctuary. Multi-leveled paths afford visitors unobstructed views of the exhibit animals and an ocean overlook provides exciting pictorial vistas of the ocean and grounds.

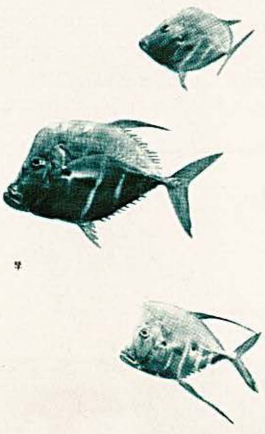
Top Deck Feeding







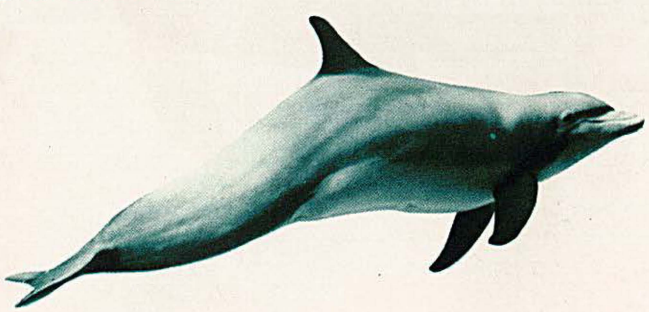
Rectangular Oceanarium

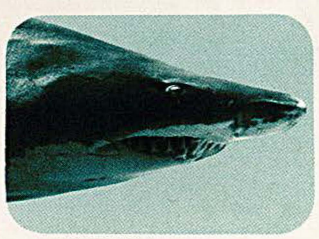


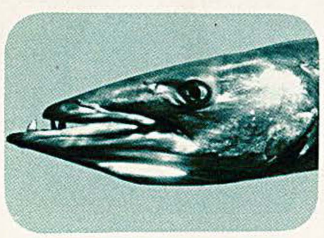
Looking into this immense tank is a unique experience. Above circle menacing sharks and game fish while colorful reef fish loom below. Into this fascinating underwater world moves a diver to feed the specimens.

Porpoises and Risso's dolphins leap for food during Top Deck Feedings. Divers feed the playful animals. The first successful porpoise birth occurred here. Since then, the porpoise colony has averaged one or more babies yearly.

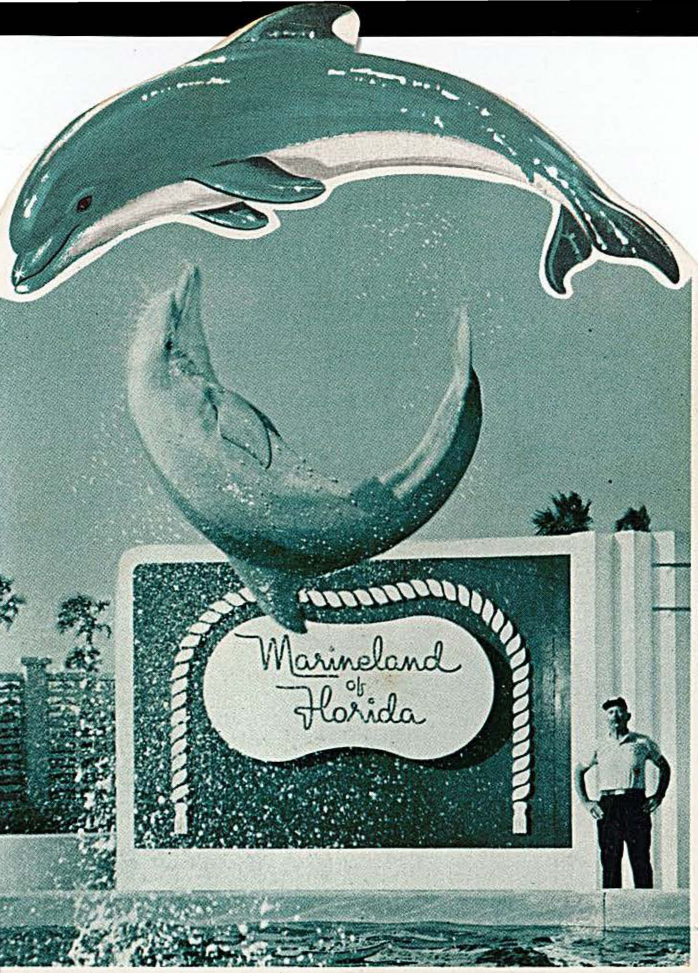
Circular Oceanarium





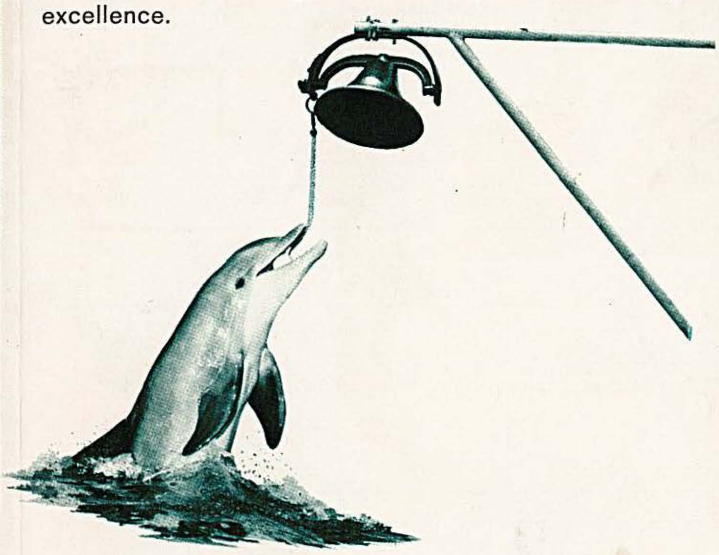


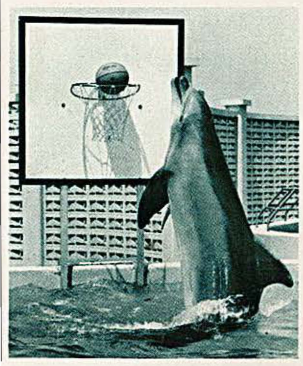
Thousands of tropical fish dwell here in contrast with sharks, barracudas and the like as one big happy family...so long as they stay out of each others way.



Porpoise Stadium

The "School for Educated Porpoises and Whales" is the result of experiments begun in 1949 to determine the porpoise's ability to learn. The rest is history. Marineland's animals are regarded as unequalled in training excellence.





Porpoises present a fast-paced show before audiences in the 1000 seat Porpoise Stadium. They star individually and in team athletic events. Not to be outdone by their smaller cousins, the Pilot whales create a big splash.
